Stock taking sale at Abbott's. Ladies' wool skirts at half price at Abbott's. Baby carriage and go-cart runners. Sadler's, Keith avenue. Charles D. Swasey of Waterbury was among the business visitors in the city yesterday.

Harold Fitts of Perry street returned yesterday from a week-end visit with friends in Burlington. Cold storage eggs to the number of 250 crates, consigned to the Boston market, were shipped by express from Barre yesterday.

Miss Rosalie Westcott, who has been passing a vacation in Cambridge and Barre, resumed her duties at Montpelier seminary to-day.

Joint installation of Minnehaha encampment and Canton Vinton to-night at 7:30. All Odd Fellows and Rebekahs cordially invited.

John A. Wilkinson, who was a member of E company in the Spanish-American war, has been renewing acquaintances among friends in the city.

Mrs. Frank C. Turner, who has been passing several weeks in the home of her son, Ralph Turner of Hartford, Conn., returned to the city last evening.

William T. Maiden, who has been passing several weeks at his home on Church street, resumed his duties as an instructor at Montpelier seminary to-day.

Walter Kopf, who has been visiting relatives in New Britain, Conn., for the past month, arrived in the city last evening to resume his studies at Goddard seminary.

Barre and Montpelier Knights of Columbus, who have been conducting a tourney in cribbage and pool since November, will have their final meet at the capital this evening.

Improvement is noted in the case of Alfred Morgan, a granite cutter who is receiving treatment at the City Hospital for an attack of blood poisoning which developed from a slight injury to his hand.

A regular meeting of the R. C. I. P. A. will be held in Foresters' hall, Worthen block, Wednesday, Jan. 16, at 7:30 p. m. All members are requested to be present as our bill expires April 1, 1918, and we will vote on sections of our new bill. Per order R. Sec.

Dr. Howard H. Reid, who enlisted in the dental reserve corps of the U. S. navy some months ago, has received word to report at Norfolk, Va., and will leave for his post late in the week. Dr. Reid expects to place a practitioner in his dental office in the Miles building.

The Barre Clothing Co., which recently quit its long-time quarters in the A. Tomasi block, has decided to continue in business, and to that end has leased an apartment in the store building near the east end of the Prospect street bridge. Tony Corey is to continue as manager of the concern, which is to mark its latest opening with a sale conducted on submarine prices.

For the first time in several years J. M. Ward and Son have finished harvesting their second crop of ice before Feb. 1. Before to-day's snowstorm came it was planned to cut ice for the benefit of farmers, but operations on the Jockey Hollow mill pond will be postponed for a time. Both of the company's storehouses are well filled, and the quality of ice secured in two harvests is considered excellent.

Two musical entertainments to be held in Barre this week are to take the form of patriotic concerts, and in each instance dancing is to follow the program. Tomorrow evening at Howland hall the local end of the Knights of Columbus war fund will have its real launching when a dance to be preceded by several musical numbers will be held. In Clan Gordon hall Friday evening the clansmen will sponsor a gathering that is to include a 10-minute speech by John W. Gordon and a musical program, with a dance to follow. The proceeds will be devoted to the Harry Lauder "million-pound" fund.

Students and teachers alike were ready to resume school work this morning when Goddard seminary reopened after a two weeks' extension to the annual vacation of 10 days. So far as the coal situation is concerned, it is thought that the supply in the hilltop bins will outlast the winter, and another cessation is not anticipated until classes are excused at commencement. Edward McGinness, graduate of Dorchester, Mass., high school, has arrived in the city to succeed Charles L. Hoernle as athletic mentor and instructor in commercial branches at the seminary. Mr. McGinness is an athlete of prowess and is remembered by local baseball fans through his connection with the St. Johnsbury baseball team a few seasons back.

Barre and Montpelier employees of the New England Tel. & Tel. Co. are to have the privilege of listening to one of the company's lectures, W. C. Cummings, on the evening of Jan. 18, according to plans announced to-day by Manager J. H. Gowdey. "Telling the World" is the topic to be used by the lecturer, and inasmuch as his remarks are designed to awaken an interest in patrons of the telephone, invitations have been extended outside the staffs of the Barre and Montpelier exchanges. Around 100 Montpelier Verill Smith of Waterbury, E. C. Clarke of Worcester and the secretary, Frank Blomfield of Berlin.

Red Cross workers of Graniteville, having pledged themselves to the creation of a fund for soldiers' tobacco, have arranged with G. M. Marston, the Depot square tobacconist, to send a number of smoke packages to the young men of Barre Town who are with the colors. Members of the Graniteville Red Cross subscribed a certain sum to which additions may be made from time to time, and the first increment has been used for the purchase of tobacco. Already 28 packages, each addressed to a former Graniteville boy, have been prepared for the mail, and others are to follow. The packages conform in shape and largely in content to the 216 packages of free tobacco which Mr. Marston recently mailed to the Barre and Barre Town boys who have enlisted. Each parcel contains 60 cigarettes, three tins of tobacco and cigarette papers.

The Smith & Cumings Co., Inc.

Elman to Play at Burlington.

Mischa Elman, the great Russian violin virtuoso, who will appear at Burlington on Jan. 24, tries to make his program interesting to his public. According to many critics, he has mastered the difficult art of program making, as well as he has the art of handling a violin.

Mr. Elman's recital programs are well balanced. He starts in with concerto, sonata, or some big modern work. He ends his program with a group of lighter compositions of varied national strains.

One of the chief reasons for the delight Mr. Elman causes through his programs is that he includes a number of songs which he has arranged for the violin. Recently he created much interest through arrangements of piano accompaniments to the Rode études. These are built in the modern style with much counterpoint.

Perhaps the most successful of Mr.

Elman's numbers last season and one which he will doubtless repeat again, is the "Poeme" of Chausson, the great Belgian composer. This work has been chosen for its great poetry and for its dramatic power. It gives Elman the ability to display his wonderful powers of climax building.

Nadarni's sonata is another of Elman's favorite concert compositions, while two other favorites are the famous piano pieces, Pastorale and Capriccio, by Scarlatti, arranged for the piano by Julius Harrison, a young talented Londoner.

Probably the most difficult work for the violin is Max Vogrich's concerto. Vogrich was Elman's friend. The work is dedicated to him, and typifies the admiration and respect the composer had for the young violinist.—Adv.
